

NHS Information Regarding General Data Protection Regulation

NHS Greater Glasgow and Clyde is the sponsor for this study based in the United Kingdom. We will be using information from you in order to undertake this study and will act as the data controller for this study. This means that we are responsible for looking after your information and using it properly. NHS Greater Glasgow and Clyde will keep identifiable information about you for 25 years after the study has finished.

Your rights to access, change or move your information are limited, as we need to manage your information in specific ways in order for the research to be reliable and accurate. If you withdraw from the study, we will keep the information about you that we have already obtained. To safeguard your rights, we will use the minimum personally-identifiable information possible.

You can find out more about how we use your information

<http://www.nhsqgc.org.uk/patients-and-visitors/faqs/data-protection-privacy/#>.

Data provided by you

The University of Glasgow will collect information from you for this research study in accordance with instructions from the sponsor.

The University of Glasgow will use your name, NHS number and contact details to contact you about the research study, and make sure the relevant information about this study is recorded for your care, and oversee the quality of the study. Individuals from NHS Greater Glasgow and Clyde and regulatory organisations may look at your medical and research records to check the accuracy of the research study. The only people in NHS Greater Glasgow and Clyde who will have access to information that identifies you will be people who need to contact you to follow-up a concern or audit the data collection process. The people who analyse the information will not be able to identify you and will not be able to find out your name, NHS number or contact details.

The University of Glasgow will keep identifiable information about you from this study for 25 years after the study has finished.

Data collected from routine records

The University of Glasgow will collect information about you for this research study from your routine records. The University of Glasgow will not provide any identifying information about you to NHS Greater Glasgow and Clyde. We will use this information to look at long-term health, educational, social care and criminal justice outcomes from the study.

Future use of your data

When you agree to take part in a research study, the information about your health and care may be provided to researchers running other research studies in this organisation and in other organisations. These organisations may be universities, NHS organisations or companies involved in health and care research in this country or abroad. Your information will only be used by organisations and researchers to conduct research in accordance with the UK Policy Framework for Health and Social Care Research. This information will not identify you and will not be combined with other information in a way that could identify you. The information will only be used for the purpose of health and care research, and cannot be used to contact you or to affect your care. It will not be used to make decisions about future services available to you, such as insurance.